WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Eureka Weather:

A trough moving over the West Coast will bring some high clouds and cooler temperatures across the interior today. However, dry conditions will persist the rest of the week. Interior temperatures will trend upward beginning Thursday as high pressure dominates the weather pattern.

Medford Weather:

The forecast area will be dry and very warm with breezy/slightly stronger than normal afternoon and evening winds through at least the weekend. The only exception will be a slight chance to chance of light showers today into tonight as a weak cold front moves east to northeast across the region.

Reno Weather:

Temperatures will remain above normal this week with the warmest readings today and Wednesday. A weak trough will develop near the West Coast for the end of the week with shower and thunderstorm potential increasing each day through the weekend.

San Francisco Weather:

Look for cooler temperatures today and tomorrow due to a deeper marine layer plus a moderate onshore flow. Temperatures will rebound for Thursday and Friday to well above normal.

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY:

Sacramento Weather:

High pressure will bring mainly dry weather and above normal temperatures to the area through the week. Isolated thunderstorms are possible near the crest of the Sierra Thursday and Friday for south of Lake Tahoe. Continued warm temperatures expected this weekend with thunderstorms possible over all the mountains in the forecast area.

Hanford Weather:

Dry weather and above normal afternoon temperatures can be expected over the central California interior through the end of the week. Isolated thunderstorms will be possible over the Sierra for the weekend.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

A very gradual cooling trend is expected through Thursday as high pressure aloft weakens and the sea breeze strengthens. For Friday through the weekend, more significant cooling is expected along with widespread low clouds and fog as weak low pressure impacts the area.

Extreme Southwestern California including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

High pressure will keep the weather warm and dry much of the week. Afternoon sea breezes will keep the days more moderate along the coast, but temperatures will still be well above average. The onshore flow will increase later in the week building the marine layer and associated coastal clouds, fog, and cooler days.

Southeast California Weather:

Dry weather with a significant warming trend will rapidly take place this week, with temperatures across the lower deserts approaching the 100 degree mark during the latter part of the week. For late this weekend into next week, the weather pattern is expected to shift again with temperatures returning back to near normal.
